Coady International Institute

History: The Coady Institute was created in 1959 by St. Francis Xavier University to promote community self-reliance and innovative ways to improve the lives of people around the world. The Institute is named for Rev. Dr. Moses Coady, one of the prominent founders of the Antigonish Movement, who inspired communities to embrace the principles of cooperation and create self-reliant societies where all people could fully participate.

The Coady International Institute is world renowned as a centre of excellence in community leadership education, with more than 5,000 Coady graduates and partners are working with millions of people in 130 countries. Coady graduates include Heads of State, MLAs MPs, and leaders of civil society and community development working to address issues of poverty, health, injustice, and the environment. www.coady.stfx.ca 867-3960
